

UNITED STATES
ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION
WASHINGTON 20545

February 13, 1974

Jim:

Steve Greenleigh views this now as a briefing paper for you to use in talking to the Chairman.

If it becomes an Information Paper for the Commission, the Summary Sheet that you saw previously can be appended to it after making slight revisions. However, at that point the paper would require a great deal more concurrence, including Steve's chiefs.

I feel that the stronger case presented here as suggested by Greenleigh is an improvement from many standpoints. For one thing, I have heard in the last couple of days that Rowland is still more concerned about being gagged by AEC than by his culpability in a series of unethical and, probably, illegal acts. I despair of our getting the message through the Argonne skull until our lawyers sit down with theirs.

I have also enclosed for your casual reading some pages of a transcript of an ACRS meeting held in January, 1974, during which Chet Richmond discussed these cases. Chet called my attention to it and feels uncomfortable about the record, which is now public.
